

Mocking PDF paperwork. This is a direct Gen Z slang adaptation with the core meaning remaining unchanged while adapting terminology. "Mocking" replaces "Dummy", which in Gen Z context means it's playfully imitating something, and 'PDF paperwork' stands for any digital file used for documentation purposes. So, if someone uses this phrase, they might be referring to a fake or humorous version of such document. This slang might also indicate that the real PDF is being ridiculed or poked fun at, usually in an informal situation among Gen Z members.